LITTLE CHEF: Helping to Prepare Food to Prepare Kids for Life.

Kids may need frequent joyful experiences involving food to overcome any anxiety they might have around tasting the unfamiliar. Over time, cooking with children can help build their confidence and provide rich sensory experiences. Many lessons can be taught while cooking including math concepts like counting, measurement, and fractions, which naturally unfold when navigating a recipe with kids.

One of the fun activities for preschool learners is cooking. Engaging them in creating something can help them build life and social skills. Our preschoolers explored an engaging and educational activity with cold cooking!

Cold cooking involves preparing food without using heat, which can be a fun and safe way for young children to get involved in the kitchen. Stirring, measuring, rolling, squeezing, and spreading are just a few of the kitchen tasks that allow young children to develop their fine motor skills.

Learning with a Lemonade Stand.

Creating a lemonade stand is a prominent and fun way for kids to develop important skills like communication, problem-solving, and creativity. With the onset of summer, proper hydration is crucial for regulating body temperature, supporting brain function, and improving mood. It becomes essential to get refreshed with cool beverages to beat the heat. On this note, 16th Avenue Gaur City organized a “Lemonade Stand” for students. Our children had a fantastic time preparing the lemonade. We observed their excitement as they squeezed lemons, sprinkled the sugar, and added salt. It was a hands-on experience in making a glass of lemonade, and they relished every bit of it!

*"Let the children be free; encourage them;
Let them run outside when it is raining;
Let them remove their shoes when they find a puddle of water;
And when the grass of the meadows is wet with dew,

Let them rest peacefully when a tree invites them to sleep

Let them shout and laugh when the sun wakes them in the

This occasion was a wonderful opportunity for students to celebrate the bond they share with their cousins, who are often like extended family members. We believe this celebration has encouraged a sense of family bond among our students. National Cousin's Day has been created so that we take the day to recognize the lifelong relationships that we have with our cousins. Often, the first friendships that we make in our lives are with our cousins.

During this event, students were encouraged to share stories, and memories, or even bring in photos of their cousins to showcase and discuss with their classmates. It was a day filled with fun activities and reflections on the special relationship we have with our cousins.

A New Analysis Compares Montessori & Traditional Education.

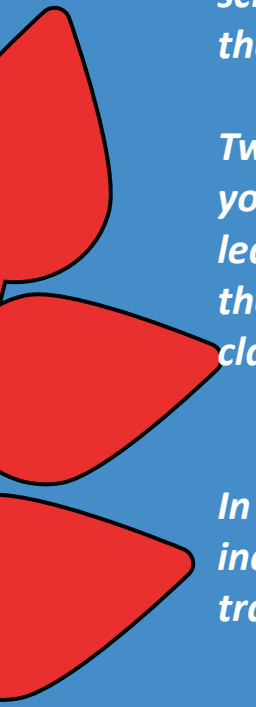

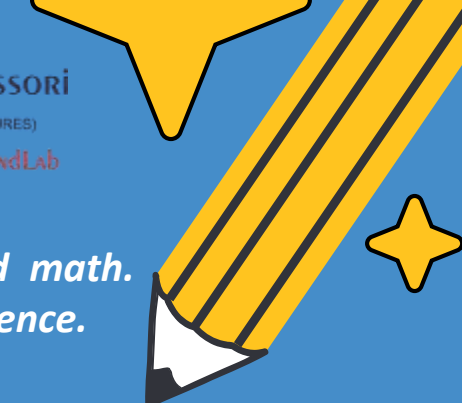

The data show that a Montessori education provides academic benefits, especially in language and math. Montessori students demonstrated stronger executive function and reported a more positive school experience.

It's been more than 100 years since Dr. Maria Montessori first developed the Montessori method of education, which focuses on building children's resourcefulness and natural abilities through practical play.

Today, Montessori is the most widespread alternative to traditional education. There are thousands of Montessori schools across the globe where students practice daily life skills, learn through hands-on activities, and explore the interdisciplinary nature of science and social studies.

Two main tenets of a Montessori education are mixed-age classrooms and no grades. At Montessori schools, younger children have long blocks of time—up to three hours at once—to freely interact with specially developed learning materials. As children get older, they participate in extensive research projects, which they present to their class. At all ages, you won't see rows of desks or assigned seats; students are welcome to move about classrooms freely and make choices about what to work on.

In nonacademic measures, Montessori students also excelled; they demonstrated stronger executive function, including self-control and working memory, and reported a more positive school experience overall compared to traditional students. Creativity did not vary significantly between Montessori and traditional students.

MONTESSORI LAB DEMONSTRATION- Innovative Montessori Lab Inspires Young Minds

The Montessori lab is an innovative space designed to nurture creativity, critical thinking, and independent learning among young children. The lab offers a variety of hands-on activities that align with the Montessori philosophy. Children engage in Practical Life Exercises, Sensorial activities, Arithmetic, Language, and Culture, all tailored to their developmental needs.

The lab is equipped with resources that encourage exploration and collaboration, fostering a love for learning from an early age. The lab not only benefits students but also empowers educators and families.

Our goal is to create an environment where children feel safe to explore and express themselves. It's a fantastic way to inspire kids and help them develop essential skills. The positive response from the community has set the stage for future growth and expansion.

By fostering an environment that encourages curiosity and hands-on learning, we at Cambridge Montessori not only enhance students' academic skills but also ignite a lifelong passion for discovery, setting the stage for a new generation of innovative thinkers.
